

Richard Irvin appointed on major regional framework

4 years ago

Richard Irvin has been appointed on new framework, EN:Procure. It is anticipated that the framework offers a pipeline of £650m over its four-year lifetime for installation, servicing, maintenance and repair works.

Efficiency North is growing its social housing landlord membership across the whole of the North of England. It will also be instrumental in continuing the success of Efficiency North's strategy to support social mobility in the communities of member landlords by boosting local training and employment opportunities.

Mark Buchan, Richard Irvin FM, CEO, said: "Successfully securing frameworks such as EN:Procure is fundamental to our growth and ambition to deliver more social value projects. This exciting new framework will facilitate the provision of FM technical maintenance and project services into a new customer base within the North of England.

"We are excited to be delivering operational excellence, working with care and compassion, and focusing on get it right first time, every time."

Emma Mottram, EN:Procure Head of Operations, commented; "I'm very pleased that the framework has achieved such an excellent offer. With this diverse range of small and large contractors operating across Northern England, it will provide an intelligent procurement solution with maximum flexibility via the range of contract options and processes.

"We very much look forward to working with our landlord membership and the appointed contractors to deliver an excellent standard of works through the framework to help members maintain high quality homes for their tenants throughout the North and Midlands.”
