

Canary Wharf Attracts Several New Retailers Set to Open in Spring 2022

3 years ago

Canary Wharf is set to welcome an exciting portfolio of new retailers this quarter. Six new tenants, with a mix of Food & Beverage, Health and Entertainment, will set up residence on the Estate in East London.

All-day restaurant group, Caravan opened its sixth restaurant on 7 February taking a 3,719 sq ft unit in Reuters Plaza. Opened on 16 February is plant-based restaurant brand backed by Lewis Hamilton, Neat Burger. It is located in the newly launched food hub, Atrium Kitchen in Cabot Place, and is a 1,842 sq ft unit, joining recent additions Marugame Udon, Gallio and German Doner Kebab.

After welcoming Hawksmoor in October, Canary Wharf's new neighbourhood, Wood Wharf, continues to expand its retail offer and welcomed Emilia's Crafted Pasta on 21 February. Located in 12 George Street, set in a 2,077 sq ft unit, it overlooks Harbour Quay Gardens and the south dock.

Taking over an extensive 79,281 sq ft in Cabot Place, Capital Karts will transform the space into an adrenalin pumping go kart racetrack in March. Malmin Dental will add to the Estate's health offering, taking up 1,114 sq ft on South Colonnade.

Stuart Fyfe, Managing Director of Retail Leasing, Canary Wharf Group comments; "These new openings add to Canary Wharf's already fantastic retail offering. We continue to introduce a diverse mix of retail, hospitality and entertainment brands to the Estate, demonstrating our commitment to ensuring Canary Wharf continues to be a vibrant and exciting destination for visitors, residents and workers. We're excited to welcome our new tenants and look forward to sampling their offer this spring."

Canary Wharf has it all – it's created a 24/7 city where people can work, live, and thrive and enjoy all the benefits; great transport links, access to green spaces and waterside living; and a wide range of amenities including an award-winning arts and events programme.

Image credit: Canary Wharf Group