G4S is delighted to announce the appointment of Alistair McBride as Strategic Account Director – Nuclear Power and Utilities Sector.

Alistair has successfully overseen the diverse security delivery to Hinkley Point C (HPC), Europe’s largest construction site – making G4S an essential component of a highly complex project.

As a result of the work undertaken by Alistair and the team at HPC, G4S now leads the way for security standards and best practice into this sector.

A spokesperson for G4S said: “Moving forwards, as we explore the expansion of our services across this sector, it is important to demonstrate that we are able to transfer the successful delivery model and high standards at HPC by aligning our Strategic Account organisation to the industry.

“This appointment provides the platform to underpin this objective. We are committed to the highest standards of security delivery to the nuclear sector and are excited by the future.”
