

The market-leader in trade association management launches new website

3 years ago

Seddon Management Services (SMS) is delighted to announce the launch of its new website.

SMS exists to offer the best solutions for trade associations to keep their members safe and compliant.

In 2021, SMS launched its new website, showcasing its full scope of services including compliance, bespoke training and development, management, marketing and auditing services, and networking and knowledge sharing opportunities. The ultimate aim of SMS is to help organisations to achieve greater success in their sector, both nationally and internationally.

Offering a range of services tailored to each business needs, (SMS) helps with cost-effective solutions for administrative duties, financial & legal help, marketing and PR. In addition, its expert team, led by Tony Seddon, can advise and tailor comprehensive training packages ensuring your members and individuals remain legally and professionally compliant in their line of work.

SMS understands compliance is the heart of working across the industry, and that's why there's a team of specialists with over 20 years' experience who can offer support and advice. Tony and his team have worked with various trade associations over the years, from start-up bodies, through to established associations, so they know every one of their clients has a range of requirements, from growing business through to profile raising and legal advice.

Visit <https://www.seddonmanagementservices.co.uk/> to find out more.

Image credit: Shutterstock