3 years ago

Tilbury Douglas, a leading UK building, infrastructure, engineering and fitout company, has announced the appointment of Don Stewart as National Business Development Director for its UK Building business, joining the UK Building Board.

MBA qualified and a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Marketing, Don has more than 20 years-experience at director level, including roles leading national and regional frameworks. Don joined Tilbury Douglas in 2014, prior to this he was the Northern Business Development Director at ISG. In addition, he previously held senior roles at Morgan Sindall and Allenbuild.

In his new role, Don will focus on supporting national and regional frameworks, key bids, supply chain partnerships and national clients, as well as co-ordinating marketing, events, awards and conferences. In addition, he will support the wider Business Development community within the company to ensure a consistent approach.

Craig Tatton, Managing Director – UK Building at Tilbury Douglas, commented: “Due to his extensive experience, and proven track record within the construction sector, Don is well placed to focus on delivering national initiatives and key objectives, supporting me in the strategic leadership of the UK Building business.”

Don Stewart added: “Tilbury Douglas has a built a reputation for delivering exceptional customer experiences and is continually recognised as a leader in collaborative working. I am looking forward to working with colleagues, customers and external stakeholders to drive the business forward, deliver our key business objectives and develop further our markets and unique brand.”
