

Terry Lifts celebrates Made in Britain Membership

3 years ago

Terry Lifts is pleased to announce its accreditation as a member of Made in Britain, an organisation which brings together British manufacturers, united by a registered collective mark.

As a member, Terry Lifts is licensed to use this official, protected mark. In doing so its customers will recognise Terry Lifts products as British-made and know that they have been manufactured to the highest standards. The mark promotes trust and gives confidence.

Trusted British Lift Manufacturer

To become a member Terry Lifts had to submit written evidence to prove its status as a British manufacturer. Therefore, the mark also lets customers know that Terry Lifts is a trusted company which values transparency.

Through the application process, Terry Lifts also proved its commitment to lowering its carbon footprint through reduced and more efficient transportation and logistics, as well as ethical sourcing of component parts.

National sales manager for Terry Lifts, Steve Hill comments:

“We are incredibly proud of our British heritage and our commitment to the British manufacturing industry. Being Made in Britain accredited reinforces this message.

“With heightened awareness surrounding imported goods from certain countries and regions, and the social, economic and environmental impact this has, we are hopeful that British consumers and decision makers will increasingly seek British-made products. As this unfolds, we are perfectly positioned to meet that requirement.”

Industry Innovator

For more than five decades, Terry Lifts has been innovative in its design and manufacture of lift and access equipment. It is responsible for the first counterbalanced stairlift which led to the development of the Terry Personal hand-operated through-floor lift in 1968. Since then, the company has won multiple design awards and developed more industry-first products, including the first domestic through-floor direct acting hydraulic lift, the Harmony. Today the company provides lift solutions and services which enable users and their loved ones to overcome barriers, revolutionise their quality of life and restore some independence.

Terry Lifts operates from its headquarters in Knutsford, Cheshire. Its range includes through floor lifts, platform lifts, step lifts, home lifts and portable wheelchair lifts. The company also offers a complete lift servicing, repair and maintenance service. 100% of its supply chain for its home lift products is based in the UK.

Made in Britain CEO John Pearce:

“We are delighted that Terry Lifts has joined our growing community of 1,800 member companies. With its 70-year history of quality engineering, Terry Lifts epitomises the innovation, consistency and resilience that are embedded in the DNA of the British manufacturing sector. By displaying the Made in Britain mark, Terry Lifts’ existing and potential customers can clearly see that the company’s products adhere to the highest standards and are of truly British provenance.”

Image credit: Terry Lifts