

Tilbury Douglas receives RoSPA Awards for its outstanding health & safety achievements

3 years ago

Tilbury Douglas Construction and Tilbury Douglas Engineering have both received a Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents (RoSPA) Order of Distinction Award, making it 22 and 21 years of consecutive Gold Awards, respectively.

Organisations receiving a RoSPA Award, the highest possible accolade in what is the UK's longest-running health and safety (H&S) industry awards, are recognised as being world-leaders in H&S practice.

Neil Rosiak, Health, Safety & Environment Director at Tilbury Douglas, commented: "It is an excellent achievement to have received this internationally-recognised award for demonstrating high H&S standards for more than 20 years in a row. As a company, we work hard to ensure our colleagues and contractors get home safely to their families at the end of every working day.

"It is thanks to everyone's commitment to H&S, as well as the leadership and behaviours at all levels, that we can celebrate this great result!"

Julia Small, RoSPA's Achievements Director, said: "This is a fantastic and well-deserved accomplishment. All our award entrants demonstrate their unwavering commitment and passion for keeping people safe at work. By receiving this recognition, Tilbury Douglas joins like-minded businesses and organisations worldwide, who represent the very best in their approach to H&S. I would like to add my personal thanks for all the work that it has taken to secure this well-deserved award – congratulations to all those involved, who champion and drive up H&S standards every day. You are a fantastic example to others in your sector.”
