

Anabas welcomes new IT Director to head up tech-led FM

3 years ago

Anabas, which provides facilities management to the corporate environment, has welcomed Nigel Wilby as its new IT Director.

With new in-house expertise, Anabas' internal technical operations will be enhanced, and we will expand our tech offering to our clients.

Nigel has more than 20 years' experience in IT. He joins Anabas following almost four years as Head Office IT Manager for The Bannatyne Group, the health club, spa and hotel group across England, Scotland, Wales, and Northern Ireland.

Alistair Craig, Managing Director of Anabas, said: "We're delighted to welcome Nigel to the team. Technology underpins the future of FM so Nigel's appointment is key to sharpening our strategy so we can provide the most valuable data insights and implement meaningful technology to yield the greatest results for our clients."

Nigel Wilby, Director of IT at Anabas added: "Working with Anabas is a fantastic opportunity and I'm pleased to be part of the team. Anabas' detail-driven, people first approach really attracted me to the business. I look forward to being able to provide more technical expertise for our client base and colleagues."