

Business Moves Group makes multiple appointments to strengthen nationwide operations

3 years ago

Business Moves Group (BMG), the UK's dedicated office and commercial relocation change management company, has appointed a business development specialist for Scotland, and new central administrators at its Midlands, North and Scotland offices.

Ivana Coppola has joined as a business development specialist for the Scotland region. Coppola will support regional manager Claire Harkins to grow the BMG brand and support businesses across a range of sectors with their real estate strategies.

Lilly James joins as central administrator for the Midlands region, Lisa Atkin for the North region, and Stephanie Munro has been appointed as central administrator for Scotland. They will have responsibility for finance, HR and compliance within their regions.

The appointments are part of a wider strategy to streamline business operations following a restructure last July. A core element of the strategy is to ramp up support in each of BMG's core locations – London and the south, the Midlands, the north, and Scotland.

This string of new hires follows on from the recent appointment of Keith Tiltman as a director. Tiltman has a wealth of workplace experience and will focus on sales and business development across all regions.

The latest appointments come ahead of what is expected to be a busy year for Business Moves Group. With many companies switching to a hybrid work system, businesses will be looking to downsize or reinvent their existing workplaces.

Rachel Houghton, managing director at Business Moves Group, added: “Though we carried out our restructure last year, the work to streamline our operations is a constant process. We’re always looking at how we can be better, whether that’s by improving our on-site moves or providing enhanced support to our employees. These appointments signal our intention to continue growing and supporting new clients.”
