Volta Compliance is a Digital Enterprise Top 100 company – again!

4 years ago

Richard Carr, Managing Director of Volta Compliance, has every reason to smile – his organisation has just been named a Digital Enterprise Top 100 company for the second year running.

Digital Enterprise is an innovative new business support programme which helps eligible, growth focused businesses, based in the Leeds City Region, to scale up and achieve digital transformation. The Digital enterprise Top 100 identifies those companies that are setting an example for others to follow. The high intensity and sustained campaign has been created by UMi, a delivery partner of the Digital Enterprise Programme.

Volta Compliance is one of the small and medium-sized companies from across nine Leeds City Region local authority areas (Leeds, Kirklees, York, Harrogate, Craven, Calderdale, Bradford, Selby and Wakefield) that feature in the TOP 100, which can now be viewed online. The list represents a diverse range of industries from innovative shed build and design firm Power Sheds; popular Viking-themed visitor attraction The JORVIK Group; digital training and suppliers for drones, Coptrz and car exterior design and modifications company, Maxton Designs.

Volta Compliance keeps companies compliant in all aspects of their premises' electrical installations. This includes planned inspections, on-going testing and safety checks. The result is to ensure businesses operate in accordance with the latest regulations and their work team and visitors stay safe.

Richard Carr said: "I am delighted that Volta Compliance has been recognised for making digital technology an integral and leading part of our business. Our role is to ensure our customers enjoy a smooth-running supply of power by making sure that their electrical network is robust and efficient. We have made a significant investment in digital technology, including our own online portal for our customers. We – and our customers – are now reaping the benefits of our investment."
