

SPIE UK launches First Corporate Social Responsibility Annual Report

3 years ago

SPIE UK is pleased to announce the publication of our first Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) Annual report, which looks at everything we focused on and achieved in 2021.

From reducing our carbon footprint and putting people at the heart of our decision-making to supporting communities and organisations through our time for society initiatives, this report shows how SPIE UK makes CSR the centre of everything it does.

Our vision is for SPIE UK to be the industry leader in supporting our clients to achieve their sustainability targets. Therefore, CSR can't be limited to just a series of indicators but must instead be the catalyst that drives our decision-making process.

As a group, SPIE has signed up to the United Nations Global Compact, an initiative where global corporations commit to responsible business practices in human rights, labour, the environment, and corruption.

SPIE Group CSR Director Isabelle Lambert, said: "At the heart of the energy transition, SPIE has longstanding commitments to CSR issues. Our 2025 roadmap shows our determination to step up our efforts both internally and for our customers."

Comprising 17 Sustainable Development Goals, the UN Global Compact aims to transform our world by uniting global stakeholders to end extreme poverty, fight inequality and injustice, and protect our planet. SPIE has signed up to all 17 of the goals and is committed to ensuring that the objectives become part of the day-to-day business decision-making processes.

We are on a journey to be and do better for our environment and know that if we all do our part, we can achieve great results. In turn, we will continue to share what we do at SPIE UK to inspire others to do the same while striving to implement innovative and sustainable ways of working.
