

Robertson Facilities Management awarded NHS Business Services Authority Contract

3 years ago

Robertson Facilities Management (RFM) has been appointed by NHS Business Services Authority (NHSBSA) to deliver both hard and soft facilities management services work across 15 buildings.

The five-year contract, commenced earlier this year, has an annual value of £3m and the option to be extended for a further four years.

Services will be provided for the North East of England. The award-winning RFM team will undertake all non-clinical works including: lift and fire safety systems maintenance; building and structural maintenance; decoration and refurbishment; cleaning; portering and reception; and security services.

Adrian Mole, managing director, Robertson Facilities Management, said: “As the chosen delivery partner for both hard and soft facilities management services, our focus will be on first-class service provision to allow NHSBSA to concentrate on its critical central services.

“Supported by our experience across a variety of sectors, we have worked tirelessly to ensure a smooth transition of services and we are pleased to welcome NHSBSA colleagues and employees from the incumbent supplier into the team.

“Committed to being socially, economically, and environmentally responsible, we look forward to supporting the NHSBSA, who share our commitment to sustainability, as they work towards their transition to Net Zero by 2030.”

NHSBSA’s purpose is to be a catalyst for better health and its vision is to be the delivery partner of choice for the NHS. To help them achieve this, RFM is supporting its Single Use Plastic Reduction Campaign Pledge by minimising the use of plastics, during catering provision.
