

360 Accountants announce energy-saving partnership in response to client fears

3 years ago

With energy-led inflation at a 40-year high and businesses becoming increasingly concerned with the rise in energy bills, 360 Chartered Accountants is delighted to announce its new partnership with Hull-based River Energy.

River Energy works with businesses across all sectors to deliver efficient energy solutions while reducing costs.

Adrian Hunter, Managing Director at 360, which has offices in Hull and York, said:

“Many of our clients are understandably worrying about the rising cost of energy bills at the moment. Businesses haven’t been covered by the price cap and have had to swallow rising gas and electricity costs. Bills are becoming unsustainable, jobs are at risk, not forgetting further inflation rises to come. That’s why we have partnered with River Energy, to ensure our clients get the best possible help and advice to weather this crisis.”

Energy audits, reducing gas and electricity costs and greener alternatives are all on the agenda, as well as help with access to grant funding and/or tax incentives where available.

Ashley Hunter, Managing Director, River Telecoms and Energy, said:

“We are absolutely thrilled to be partnering up with 360. They are one of the leading, most dynamic accountants in the region and we are looking forward to working with them to drive down energy costs for businesses during this extremely difficult period.”
