

IWFM London Region talk 'back to the future' as annual conference returns

3 years ago

The year is 1992.

The sounds of The Cure and En Vogue play on people's Sony Walkmans.

Stephen King's film, The Lawnmower Man, shocked us with visions of a virtual reality enabled digital future.

And for a little-known discipline called FM, it was a time of opportunity.

How has FM developed since the age of the Nokia 101?

How did we deliver the key services of our industry, and what were they like?

And what is their relevance not just for today, but for tomorrow?

Join the IWFM London Region on 15 November at 15Hatfields as we go 30 years back...in order to explore the future.
