

Kingdom makes two key appointments as it continues to focus on growth

4 years ago

Kingdom is continuing to invest in new senior roles, with the appointment of a new Sales Lead Campaign Manager and Communications Manager.

Stuart Andrews takes on the Sales Lead Campaign Manager role. Stuart will be working with the management team of each company within Kingdom Group to help ensure they each achieve their growth ambitions. He joins the company with over 25 years senior sales experience in multimedia, fuel storage, healthcare, and energy.

Michele Hammond has been appointed as the Group's new Communications Manager and will be leading and directing both the internal and external communications strategies to improve reach and impact. She has over 20 years' experience in B2B marketing, marketing communications and sales across a wide variety of sectors, including healthcare, construction, and education.

Stuart says: "I am absolutely delighted to be joining Kingdom Group at such an important time for the company. It's expanding rapidly with more companies joining the Group all the time.

"An important part of my role will be helping make sure that we make the most of our breadth of existing services to identify opportunities that already exist within the Group."

Michele adds: "It is just such a great time to be joining Kingdom. With the Group continuing to grow, clear and good communication and messages are absolutely business critical."

Away from work, both Stuart and Michele are keen charity fundraisers. Stuart has raised thousands of pounds for social and healthcare charities in north-west England. Michele has also been involved in charitable work, including raising funds for Scouts and Friends of the Moor.

Mark Wallace, Kingdom Group Director, says: “We are delighted to have Stuart and Michele on board, in two key roles for Kingdom.

“Their experience and wealth of knowledge will help tremendously in the roles they’ve taken on here at Kingdom and we know they’re going to do a brilliant job.”

The appointments of Stuart and Michele comes after several new appointments by Kingdom so far in 2022 to achieve their UK and overseas growth ambitions and to expand existing Group centres that support the delivery of a best-in-class service.
