

Security and Fire Excellence Awards recognises partnering excellence

3 years ago

On 23rd November, the collaboration between G4S Secure Solutions and client Jones Lang LaSalle (JLL) and several other security providers was recognised at the annual Security & Fire Excellence Awards.

JLL is a leading global provider of real estate services. Awarded Security Partnering Initiative of the Year, this was deserved recognition for a complex project which saw three main security providers realign their security offering in line with the markets in which JLL clients operate.

This realignment created a layer of complexity to the mobilisation, with each supplier transitioning sites and employees, whilst also bringing in new sites and new employees, all completed during a six-week contract mobilisation period.

To deliver JLL's vision for the contract, it was imperative that G4S and the other security providers worked collaboratively during mobilisation so that the sites and security teams transitioned successfully within the tight timeline.

We established a strategic and operational alliance for a successful partnership from the outset,

Including;

- Providing mutual support
- Preserving bespoke uniforms
- Communicating regularly and forming a strategy steering group
- Sharing site specific security information in a confidential manner

These activities were integral to enhancing the client's reputation as a leading provider of real estate and investment management services. In total, 98% of employees successfully and happily transferred.

Nicholas Batchelor, Account Director of G4S Property Management Division said. 'We are delighted with this recognition. We are committed to building long standing partnerships with our customers. Teamwork and integrity are two of our core values and this award is just reward for putting these values into practice'.
