

Bidvest Noonan appoints Director of Operations for its London Security Solutions business unit

3 years ago

Bidvest Noonan has appointed Chris Rugg as Director of Operations in its London Security Solutions business unit.

The company launched the specialist London-focused business unit in February 2022 to expand its expertise and capability in the capital. Since its launch, the business unit, which delivers a wide range of security and front-of-house services, has established a leadership position in the city.

Chris Rugg has more than 25 years of senior leadership experience in the security industry. Following a successful career in the British armed forces, Rugg served in director-level positions with a number of the largest security businesses in the UK. In recent years, he has focussed exclusively on London and amassed invaluable experience directing security operations in the city.

Managing Director Liz Cummins commented on the appointment, "I'm delighted to welcome Chris to our team. His understanding of our industry, customers, and market is exceptional, and, like us, he is committed to delivering innovative and high-quality security services."

Chris has a talent for building high-performing teams and strong customer relationships. I'm confident he will be very successful at Bidvest Noonan, and I look forward to the positive impact he will have on our business".

Chris Rugg said: "I am thrilled to have joined Bidvest Noonan. This is a dynamic and innovative business with a great track record and an impressive portfolio of customers. I'm excited to take on this new role and to work as part of such a strong team to support our customers and grow the business.”