Last month Portico mobilised services at 49 JLL sites in London and over 20 sites across the UK, including Bristol and Manchester, Scotland and Wales.

This mobilisation aligns with Portico's aim to bolster its presence in major cities and welcomes 120 new Portico colleagues to the business. Portico is providing front-of-house guest services including reception provision, events, and building activations to create communities and encourage office occupancy.

JLL has chosen to outsource its guest services to Portico to provide impeccable service and utilise Portico's value adds including its award-winning training academy and proven ability to activate building community spaces and improve service delivery.

Portico director of operations Oliver Hiner said: "We are extremely excited to be working with JLL PAM in this capacity. Providing offices and communal building spaces with life and community spirit is what we do best at Portico.

"This continues to be in high demand as our clients look for new ways to attract their workforce back to the office. We have fantastic teams positioned at these newly mobilised sites who are already making an impact and we look forward to further building upon this."
