

Tilbury Douglas appointed as a partner on the new £1bn Pagabo Medium Works Framework

3 years ago

Tilbury Douglas has been appointed on the new Pagabo Medium Works Framework – a four-year framework operating from January 2023 to January 2027. The SME rich framework provides national coverage through 42 regions and provides a compliant, flexible and collaborative procurement route for projects ranging from £50k to £10m in value.

This is the second iteration of the medium works framework, which has already delivered in excess of 150 projects with Tilbury Douglas, securing and delivering over £35m of framework projects. Including the Sherwood Oaks Hospital, Leeds Beckett University Law School and critical fast track Covid-19 Vaccination Centres.

Tom Retallick, Framework Manager at Pagabo said: “We are pleased to be continuing our relationship with Tilbury Douglas. Their selection as a partner on the new framework was based not only on their strong financial standing and delivery capability, but on their ability to deliver high impact social value outcomes, relevant digital and MMC solutions, as well as support clients to decarbonise their estates.”

Don Stewart, National Business Development Director at Tilbury Douglas, said: “As collaborative working specialists, we have a number of frameworks to support exemplar project delivery. Pagabo is a great example, we have enjoyed a collaborative partnership with them since 2016 and we are delighted to be continuing our successful working relationship. Using their frameworks to support our growth within our core sectors, including health and education. This new framework is fully Construction Playbook and Gold Standard Framework compliant and well aligned to our approach to improve productivity, sustainability and provide exceptional value for money for our clients.”
