

New Regional Director for South Wales for Tilbury Douglas

2 years ago

Tilbury Douglas, UK building, infrastructure, engineering and fit-out company, has announced the appointment of Chris Edmonds as Regional Director for South Wales.

Having started his career at Tilbury Douglas in 2006, Chris Edmonds has progressed through a variety of senior roles, most recently as Regional Operations Director for South Wales. He also spent five years leading the £130m refurbishment of Prince Charles Hospital in Merthyr Tydfil.

Chris' promotion follows the retirement of Carl Read, who worked at Tilbury Douglas for almost 40 years, having started his career as a general building operative in 1983.

Simon Butler, Managing Director Building Central at Tilbury Douglas, said: "With extensive experience of the business and region, having been with Tilbury Douglas for many years, it is great to see Chris promoted to the role of Regional Director. I am confident that he will continue to develop and grow the region.

"We wish Carl all the best for his retirement and thank him for all his years of commitment to the business."
