

PTSG to deliver specialist services in central London

2 years ago

Premier Technical Services Group Ltd \(PTSG\) has been contracted to deliver specialist electrical services at a prominent office building in central London.

13 Fitzroy Street is situated in Fitzrovia, London W1. The Sheppard Robson-designed building had to encompass sustainability, suitable for one of the most innovative engineering practices in the world. The building is situated in a sought-after location, boasting excellent transport links with Goodge Street station on the Northern Line within a short walking distance.

In this project, engineers from PTSG Electrical Services Ltd will install a bespoke lightning protection system which will offer a firm defence against electrical storms for the structure and all users.

In addition to providing new systems, PTSG also delivers testing and inspection and maintenance services for existing lightning and surge protection systems, plus a full range of services for specialist earthing systems.
