

NG Bailey named as supplier for Pagabo M&E Framework

2 years ago

NG Bailey, a leading independent Engineering and Services business, has been named as one of the suppliers on the Pagabo four-year M&E Framework worth £545m.

The framework will be available nationally, split into 12 regions, and open for all types of public sector organisations to procure through.

Founded in 1921, the business has grown from a small electrical contractor to the award-winning, industry-leading company it is today.

A spokesperson said: "It is family-owned with a great heritage, and it is proud of everything we've achieved and all the projects we've successfully delivered to our customers over the years.

"Working across a variety of sectors within the construction industry, our approach allows us to work on fantastic, ground-breaking projects using the latest tools and technologies."
