Team Ward support Hi! Visibility Day in London

2 years ago

On Thursday 14th September, Team Ward supported the Hi! Visibility Day in London – a day where security professionals join to spread awareness and engagement around security in the city. The event is run in partnership between members of The City Security Council, the City of London Police and the London Fire Brigade.

The initiative encourages collaborative working to ensure security is a top priority – helping the public to feel safe in London. It's such an important day which displays partnership at its best – together we can ensure the safety of London.

Thank you to all of Team Ward that participated.
