

Tilbury Douglas appointed onto the North West Construction Hub – Medium Value Framework

2 years ago

Tilbury Douglas has secured a place on the North West Construction Hub (NWCH) Medium Value Framework.

It has been procured to deliver projects across values of £3m to £8m, with a framework period of three years, with the option to extend for up to an additional year.

Significant interest was received in the opportunity, however after a thorough evaluation process, 11 construction framework partners were appointed to the new framework.

Phil Shaw, Divisional Director for the North West at Tilbury Douglas, commented: "Our appointment to the NWCH Framework reinforces our expertise as a project partner to deliver in our core sectors for strategic clients. The framework will provide an efficient and compliant route to market for clients to meet their project needs.

"We're looking forward to collaborating with the NWCH in developing and promoting opportunities and delivering exceptional social value to ensure the positive impact of the framework."

Ian Hall, NWCH Framework Lead, said: "Congratulations to our esteemed construction contractor partners on their exceptional bids to join the new iteration of the NWCH Medium Value Framework. Your commitment to quality and expertise truly stood out, and we eagerly anticipate the collaborative successes that lie ahead."
