

TMT return includes search for young members

2 years ago

Building on the award winning success of the last eight years, Tomorrow Meets Today (TMT) has returned for 2023.

Tomorrow Meets Today is FM's only exclusive networking evening specifically focused on promoting diversity and creating unique opportunities for future leaders to meet inspirational current leadership. The organiser states there will be 18 inspiring leaders included, with space for 20 future leaders to join.

Sponsored by Pareto FM, the event will be held at the inspiring ASOS head offices in Camden on 9 November 2023. The evening will include a unique networking experience whereby the 'tomorrow people' will get exclusive access to network with the wide-ranging leadership group. The evening will include speed networking, talks from industry leaders and discussion over drinks.

The event for 2023 specifically focuses on ESG and each of the leaders have been chosen as pioneers in a certain field. From ED&I champions to neurodiverse leadership through to those experienced in mental health to veteran representation. The senior group is uniquely placed to offer advice and is claimed to be unique within the FM industry.

This free programme is now seeking nominations for young people to join. They can be from any organisation both within and outside of FM. The programme is aimed at attracting people under the age of 34 to give them a unique opportunity to meet the diverse leaders.

Those wishing to nominate themselves or industry contacts can do so at <https://tinyurl.com/TMTESG> which requires the filling of a form that takes less than five minutes to complete.

Nominations will close on 30 September 2023. The list of confirmed leaders include:
