2 years ago

Early bird tickets are now on sale and entries are open for the IPAF Summit and International Powered Access Awards (IAPAs) in Copenhagen in March 2024.

The organiser said 1 December 2023 is the deadline to secure the best ticket prices for the event and submit entries.

Managing director Peter Douglas said: “The IPAF Summit and IAPAs are annual highlights of our calendar and a fantastic showcase of the very best of our industry.

“After the tremendous success of the 2023 summit in London, we are very excited to gather in Copenhagen for the 2024 event.

“Tickets have sold out for the last two years, so I would urge everyone who wants to attend to book early to avoid disappointment and take advantage of our early bird savings.”

The IPAF Summit opens on Wednesday 13 March 2024 with a site visit – location to be confirmed – providing a unique opportunity to take a behind-the-scenes tour of an industry-related worksite or place of interest. An evening networking reception follows at Copenhagen’s impressive Planetarium.

The second day opens with the IPAF Annual General Meeting, and is followed by the IPAF Summit Conference, a full day of talks and seminars focused on the latest developments in powered access.

The summit events come to a close with the IAPA Awards dinner on Thursday 14 March. IAPA categories are open to companies from across the industry celebrating innovation, customer service, and commitment to all-important principles of safety, equality and diversity.

The awards also celebrate individual achievements, with categories including photography, training excellence, and the coveted IPAF/Access International Lifetime Achievement Award.
