

ISS partners with Social Value Portal to strengthen its extensive social value strategy

2 years ago

FM service provider ISS UK and Ireland has announced its partnership with Social Value Portal, the social value measurement organisation.

The partnership, which enables the company to quantify and report the social value the business generates, underlines its commitment to people, places and planet. The Social Value Portal is a social impact company that prevents 'greenwashing' and sets tangible action, bringing rigour to the way organisations measure, manage and report on social value, and helping them evidence exactly how the organisation, and its suppliers, are making a difference in communities. Head of social value Anna Farquharson said: "ISS embeds social value into the way we work, from hiring new talent to how we engage with our colleagues and communities. Our partnership with Social Value Portal enables us to not only gauge the positive effects we have as an organisation but do so with complete transparency, helping us manage performance and drive improvements across our business." Social Value Portal CEO Guy Battle said: "Social Value Portal is delighted to be partnering with ISS; It's a clear indication of the importance ISS associates with affecting positive change. We look forward to supporting ISS in its clear commitment to social value."
