Eleanor Eaton, SSIP Chair, discusses how the SSIP scheme provides assurance to clients that their suppliers have been fully assessed and certificated by an SSIP Forum Member, and how suppliers can demonstrate their occupational health & safety credentials with one simple, universal certification.

In today's fast-paced world, ensuring the safety of our workforce is paramount. Every responsible business understands the imperative of robust Health and Safety protocols. It's not just a legal requirement; it's a commitment to the well-being of our employees and partners, a dedication to ethical business practices, and a cornerstone of sustainable growth.

But How do businesses navigate the labyrinth of Health and Safety regulations effectively? And how do you ensure your business is not only compliant but also excelling in the realm of workplace safety?

Enter SSIP – the game-changer in Health and Safety standards.

What is SSIP?

SSIP stands for Safety Schemes in Procurement. It's not just an assessment; it's a ticket to a safer, more compliant, and progressive business environment. As the Chair of SSIP, I am immensely proud of what our organisation represents and achieves.

At its core, SSIP is a collective of over 50 Health and Safety assessment schemes, all dedicated to ensuring that businesses adhere to the highest standards of Health and Safety regulations. Whether it's desktop assessments or comprehensive ISO45001 audits, SSIP brings together the best in the industry to set a recognised standard for Health and Safety practices.

A universal, recognised standard: SSIP is the only recognised standard for Health and Safety. It’s not just us saying it; it’s the industry, clients, and even the Health & Safety Executive vouching for our credibility.

Assessment consistency: SSIP’s Core Criteria, our threshold standard, ensures every assessment is completed to the same consistent standard. No shortcuts, no compromises – just unwavering quality.

Mutual recognition: There’s strength in unity. SSIP member schemes mutually recognise each other’s standards. It’s a collaborative effort to elevate industry-wide Health and Safety practices.
