

Access Construction Wins Double at Construction Computing Awards

2 years ago

Access Construction, part of The Access Group, won 'Company of the Year 2023' and 'ERP Solution of the Year 2023' at the Construction Computing Awards on November 9th 2023, hosted at the Leonardo Royal Hotel in London.

Known as 'The Hammers', the Construction Computing Awards, which recognises the leading names in construction technology, is now in its 17th year.

Access Construction won the leading accolade of Company of the Year, and Access COINS ERP, built for the construction sector, won ERP Solution of the Year.

COINS ERP, acquired by The Access Group in 2022, has over 100,000 users worldwide, including some of the world's largest construction contractors and housebuilders.

Access Construction's estimating software, Access ConQuest, also won runner-up for Estimation & Valuation Software of the Year 2023.

Alex Boury, general manager at Access Construction, commented:

"We are delighted to have won two Construction Computing awards. This is a real testament to the work we are doing across Access Construction to build great products used across the construction industry. We strive to bring great solutions to market and it is great to see our efforts being recognised as we grow our footprint within the sector."
