

Bowmer and Kirkland have secured a place on the University of Cambridge Estates Division's Major Construction Works Framework

2 years ago

Bowmer and Kirkland have secured a place on the University of Cambridge Estates Division's Major Construction Works Framework, in the projects over £7.2m band. This framework place gives Bowmer and Kirkland a great platform from which to grow their work as part of our ongoing efforts to expand operations in the Cambridge area.

Ed Sutton, Pre-Construction Director said "We are delighted to have been selected for this Framework, which allows us to make inroads into Cambridge as a region, as well as the science and technology sector. Our high performance over many years on numerous national frameworks stood us in good stead to offer a service proposition that aligned with Estates Division's needs."

The Estates Division is responsible for the planning, development and operation of the University's operational and investment estates. It employs 350 people and is responsible for capital and operational budgets in excess of £200m. The operational estate is one of the UK's largest and most diverse, ranging from Grade 1 listed buildings to state-of-the-art laboratories and research facilities, museums to a farm and a botanical garden.