Chief Executive Officer at Sodexo UK and Ireland, Sean Haley said: "We're delighted to be sponsoring the Purpose Coalition 2023 awards. Here at Sodexo, we're all about breaking down barriers and fostering inclusivity. As we face unprecedented challenges, it's crucial to honour those who are making a positive impact. The 'Breaking Down Barriers' Awards 2023 aim to celebrate those dedicated to creating a more inclusive, diverse, and equitable society. I look forward to seeing the nominations for the exceptional individuals and organisations who are truly making a difference."

Purpose Coalition Chair and former Education Secretary, Rt Hon Justine Greening, said: "With recent research showing that poor social mobility is still entrenched in this country, it is more important than ever to work together to tackle the barriers that prevent people from getting on. The Purpose Coalition developed the 14 Purpose Goals to help identify the key elements that need to be in place to ensure that there is equality of opportunity, from a child's early years to fair recruitment processes, from closing the digital divide to harnessing the energy transition. They provide a useful framework for organisations to assess how they are doing and what more they can do to make a positive social impact."

"These awards shine a spotlight on the great work that many organisations are already undertaking and demonstrate the very real difference that they are making. Highlighting this best practice shows others what can be achieved, providing encouragement and inspiration to others who may not be as advanced on their social mobility journey. We need innovative and creative solutions that will make a difference and the winners of today's awards provide that. Congratulations to them, and I hope they will continue to lead the way to shape a fairer and more equitable future."

Purpose Coalition Engagement Director and former member of Keir Starmer's Shadow Cabinet, Nick Forbes CBE added: "These awards show what is possible when organisations with purpose and ambition set their sights on tackling poor social mobility. We are very proud that they are sponsored by Sodexo, a company whose genuine commitment to equality of opportunity is deeply embedded in its culture and is evident across every part of the company. It makes it its business to understand how it can best support its colleagues and customers as well as the communities it serves. That's the right thing to do but it also makes sound business sense, showing that growth and social commitment can be part of the same approach."
