

Savills has moved into a prestigious new home in Bath.

1 year ago

The new office extends to over 2,500 sq. ft. and occupies a prominent location on Milsom Street, the city's historic shopping street.

Set within an elegant Georgian building, the impressive space has been renovated and reconfigured to provide a spacious, flexible and contemporary home for the market-leading team of residential and rural property experts and their clients.

Savills first opened in Bath in 1988 and over the last three decades has become a market-leading multidisciplinary business, providing high-quality services across every aspect of residential and rural property.

Alistair Heather, head of Savills Bath, commented: 'Savills enjoyed an incredible 35 years in our former office on George Street, but had outgrown the space. We saw an opportunity, not only to move onto one of the city's most famous shopping streets, but to create a new flagship office that is perfectly aligned to our clients, business and brand.'

'We are proud to be the market-leading business for residential sales in and around Bath. Undoubtedly, this comes down to the strength and expertise of our team, in which we continue to invest. This means that, despite a more challenging market, we have secured some significant sales for our clients this year, including record-breaking sales on Great Pulteney Street and Brock Street, two of the city's most iconic addresses.'

'We are thoroughly delighted with the new home we have created and look forward to welcoming friends and clients old and new.'
