

Deadline approaching for The Retrofit Awards

2 years ago

There is now less than one week remaining to apply for the next annual Retrofit Academy Awards taking place at ExCel London on 5 March 2024 to celebrate excellence within the industry.

The ceremony will take place on the first day of The National Retrofit Conference, which is being held for the first time at this year's FutureBuild. Bringing together retrofit businesses and retrofitters from across the country, the awards recognise and celebrate the amazing work from across the industry in the race to the top of housing decarbonisation.

Following on from last year's event, where over 200 professionals came together to celebrate, this year's ceremony will include awards recognising excellence in applying PAS2035 and delivering high-quality retrofit at scale. This includes the Retrofit Coordinator of the Year, celebrating those excelling in the coordination role, and Retrofit Contractor of the year, which recognises the company that has provided the best solution for a client's large-scale retrofit programme.

The ceremony will include two new categories this year: Retrofit Installer of the Year and The Retrofit Social Value Award. For Retrofit Installer of the Year, judges will be looking for a company that has a client-centric approach to installing innovative and effective installations. When judging the entries for the Best Retrofit Social Value Award, organisations must evidence initiatives that have placed residents and the community at the heart of retrofit projects.

The 2024 ceremony's full list of 11 categories include:

- Retrofit Coordinator of the Year
- Retrofit Assessor of the Year

- Retrofit Contractor of the Year
- Retrofit Installer of the Year
- Retrofit Designer of the Year
- Retrofit Assessment and Coordination Service
- Best Retrofit Employer Award
- Retrofit Academy Graduate Award
- Best Local Authority Retrofit Programme
- Best Social Housing Retrofit Programme
- The Retrofit Social Value Award

The Retrofit Academy CEO David Pierpoint said: “The Retrofit Academy Awards were established to reward high quality retrofitting across the market and highlight the fantastic work by retrofitters and exemplary individual projects. It’s also a great way to see how the industry has progressed, and to bring together organisations, stakeholders, and individuals from across the sector. It’s no easy task to tackle the challenges that face this industry so celebrating those who have done a marvellous job at leading the way and showcasing progress that is being made across the country is important.”

There is only a short time remaining to enter The Retrofit Awards with entries closing on 16 January 2024. For more information on applications, sponsorship opportunities and to submit your entry, please click here.
