

PTSG delivers electrical services at prison

2 years ago

Premier Technical Services Group Ltd \(PTSG\) has completed a specialist electrical services project at a prison in the south-west of England.

HM Prison Service runs 105 of the 122 prisons in England and Wales. The others are run by private companies. There are men's prisons, women's prisons and Young Offender Institutions (YOIs).

Every prison has its own unique environment. Some are based in the middle of a city, others are very remote. Some were built hundreds of years ago, others are brand new. Some can hold as many as 1600 prisoners, and others as few as 160.

This particular prison in the south-west of England was built in the mid-19th century and is a typical Victorian design, with three wings positioned around the centre.

In this contract, engineers from PTSG Electrical Services Ltd carried out a full test and inspection of the lightning protection system. Required by law on an annual basis, a test and inspection will highlight any remedial work that needs to be undertaken to ensure the system remains fully operational and able to protect buildings and users alike.

PTSG is the UK's leading provider of lightning protection services. This also includes the design, installation, testing and maintenance of surge protection systems as well as power earthing solutions for customers in all sectors.
