

Westgrove welcomes new Head of ESG

2 years ago

The Westgrove Group is delighted to welcome Mark Allison as Head of ESG.

Mark joins the business with over 30 years' experience working with companies in both public and private sectors including British Land at Meadowhall, the NHS and Marks & Spencer, leading and supporting initiatives that advance sustainable futures for all, with a particular emphasis on harnessing ESG and innovation.

Glenn Wilson, Westgrove Group Managing Director commented, "with Mark's extensive credentials and experience in all pillars of the critical ESG arena, he was an obvious choice to lead our mission and further develop our journey towards net zero".

Mark added, "I am genuinely looking forward to contributing my skills, expertise, and passion to Westgrove. I am confident that my qualifications and experience align perfectly with the company's visionary progressive future, and I am committed to positively impacting the company's growth, success, and most importantly making that journey with the team to sustainability."

Westgrove is a facilities management company that provides cleaning, security, customer service, and planned & reactive maintenance services to corporate offices, shopping centres, mixed-use destinations, manufacturing, and business parks throughout the UK.

Established in 1998 by group Chairmen Simon Whittle and Steve Fives, the Westgrove Group proudly celebrated its 25th anniversary last year.
