

Facade Access Design Engineering (FADE) Seminar: Pioneering the Future of Building Maintenance

1 year ago

SAEMA, the Specialist Access Engineering Association, is excited to announce the sponsorship of the inaugural Facade Access Design Engineering (FADE) Seminar on Monday 4th March 2024.

Taking place at the prestigious London Centre, the hub for NLA London's built environment community, FADE is set to become a highlight event for professionals across the facade access design sector. This technically focused seminar is designed to cater to professionals at every stage of facade access projects, from initial strategy formulation through to specification, design, supply, installation, operation, maintenance, and inspection.

Attendees will gain unparalleled insights into effective strategies, cutting-edge technologies, and industry best practices, facilitated through technical presentations by a line-up of industry-leading experts:

- Mark Davison, Chairman of SAEMA and Director at PTSG Access and Safety Ltd
- Dave Ellis, Consultant at Time Consultancy Enterprises Limited
- Dan Elsmore, Director at Spire Access Solutions Ltd
- Stephen Green, HM Inspector of Health & Safety at Health & Safety Executive
- Mark Jarvis IEng MSOE, Specialist Engineer at Allianz Engineering Inspections Services Ltd
- Stefan Spanjer, Consultant at Managing Director KITE Robotics International BV

Each speaker will share valuable technical presentations, offering insights into their specialist areas of operations.

Mark Davison, Chairman of SAEMA, emphasised the significance of the event: “This seminar is shaping up to be one of the most important events within our industry’s calendar. I’m thrilled to be joined by some of our industry’s leading minds to share our insights and valuable technical experience with our peers and partners.”
