

Hat Trick of hires at Lonsdale Contracts

2 years ago

Leeds based facilities management and maintenance provider Lonsdale Contracts has made a string of appointments as part of its on-going expansion strategy.

Daniel Houghton joins as Local Authorities Trades Supervisor, working on projects such as wet room conversions, level access, rise and fall kitchen worktops and door widening.

Meanwhile Daz Wall takes on the role of Senior Trades Supervisor in the firm's 'New Build Aftercare' division which provides outsourced repair and maintenance services to a growing number of national and regional house builders.

Elsewhere Mark Statham, an experienced multi-trade operative, will work on pension fund, buy to rent (BTR) and private rental sector (PRS) property portfolios and housing associations.

Christian Higgins, joint Managing Director of Lonsdale Contracts, said: "These are important appointments and we are delighted to have added such experienced and skilled operatives to the team in order to maintain our high levels of service and reputation for excellence. "

Formed in 2008 by Christian Higgins and Andrew Mayo, Lonsdale Contracts provides bespoke commercial and residential facilities management and maintenance through its own in-house workforce to clients including; pension funds, managing agents, housing associations and estate management companies. They also provide new build after-care to the construction industry.
