

LSH bolsters Birmingham Office with two new strategic recruits

1 year ago

Lambert Smith Hampton has appointed Senior Planner, Katie Gregory, and Associate Director, Chantelle Evans to strengthen the Birmingham office.

Katie Gregory, a seasoned Senior Planner and Chartered member of the Royal Town Planning Institute, joins LSH with over four years of extensive experience in the Planning Industry. With a proven track record of collaborating with commercial developers, land promoters, and housebuilders, Katie brings invaluable expertise in policy research, planning statements, Statements of Community Involvement, and the facilitation of planning applications.

Chantelle Evans, appointed as Associate Director, will strengthen LSH's Commercial Property Management team in Birmingham. Having worked at Fisher German previously, she brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to the company. Chantelle has experience in managing multi-let industrial estates, serviced offices, retail parades, and single-let properties for a diverse range of clients, including private investors, trusts, SIPP providers, and property companies.

Moreover, both Katie's and Chantelle's dedication extends beyond their professional realm as they both actively contribute to the West Midlands 'Women in Property Committee', showcasing their commitment to fostering diversity and inclusion within the industry.

These strategic appointments underscore LSH's commitment to delivering excellence and driving innovation within the property sector.

John Bird, Regional Director, commented: "We are thrilled that Chantelle has joined us in the Birmingham Commercial Property Management team. Chantelle brings 14 years of experience and will play a key role in our growth plans, working with our key clients both regionally and nationally."

Chantelle Evans, Associate Director, said: "I am delighted to join the Commercial Property Management team at LSH in Birmingham. With years of experience gained at Fisher German, I bring vast knowledge to the role. My aim is to apply these skills diligently, ensuring that our clients at LSH receive service of the highest standard. I am particularly enthusiastic about John's growth plans and eagerly anticipate contributing as an integral part of the team".

Stephen Hemming, Head of Planning Consultancy, said: "We are delighted to welcome Katie to LSH, strengthening not only our Birmingham Planning offer but also our national team helping our ambition to become one of the top ten planning consultancies in the UK. We are working on some fantastic schemes both in Birmingham and across the country and her skill and enthusiasm will help our clients to deliver their development proposals".

Katie Gregory, Senior Planner, commented: "I am excited to take the next step of my career with LSH as Senior Planner. I am looking forward to working closely with colleagues and clients on a range of projects within the region, as well as contributing to the growth of the Birmingham Planning team and upholding LSH's strong presence in the market."
