About the speakers:

Our panel comprises industry leaders who have successfully implemented SSIP to create safer, more compliant and efficient work environments. Moderated by Eleanor Eaton, Chair at SSIP, the session will feature:

- Katie Williams, Head of Commissioning at Southern Housing, will share insights on how SSIP forms a pivotal part of their supplier vetting process, aiding one of the UK's largest housing providers in managing over 77,000 homes efficiently and safely.
- Chris Fairhall, Head of Supply Chain at Multiplex, will discuss how enforcing SSIP approval across their global supply chain enhances operational efficiency and drives cost savings.
- Kevin Horner, Procurement Operations Leader at Laing O'Rourke, will explain how SSIP certification is mandated throughout their supply chain, ensuring compliance and seamless supplier relationships.

Maximising Efficiency Across Your Supply Chain:

In 2023 alone, SSIP facilitated an impressive £10 million in Deem to Satisfy (DtS) savings, contributing to a total of £70 million in savings for suppliers and buyers over the last year.

The principle of Mutual Recognition, which allows for cross-member recognition and reduces redundant health and safety pre-qualification assessments, underscores SSIP's commitment to efficiency.

With over 84,000 suppliers currently registered with an SSIP Member Scheme, the benefits of adopting SSIP as a standard are extensive and impactful.
