

New Leadership at Constructing Rainbows

2 years ago

Constructing Rainbows has welcomed Emma McLaughlin-Edwards to the team as a Company Director. Emma brings extensive executive-level experience in equity, diversity, and inclusion within the Facilities Management industry.

Commenting on her appointment, Emma said: “It was an easy and exciting decision to join Constructing Rainbows because of the company’s clear commitment to driving meaningful change in equity, diversity, and inclusion (EDI) within the built environment. The work Sharon Slinger (Founder) done in creating a platform that integrates EDI into the heart of the industry deeply resonated with my own values and experience. I saw an opportunity to not only continue my passion for building inclusive spaces but to work alongside someone equally driven by purpose.

“My skills complement Sharon’s in several ways. With over 20 years of experience within the Facilities Management industry, I bring a strategic understanding of how to develop and implement initiatives that are scalable and impactful. Sharon’s expertise lies in her ability to create innovative frameworks and lead on EDI policy development in the built environment. Together, we blend a hands-on approach to implementation with high-level strategy and innovation, setting not only ambitious goals but also achieving tangible, measurable outcomes for our clients. This synergy between vision and execution makes us a powerful team, capable of leading Constructing Rainbows to new heights of success in EDI.”
