

Andy Richards Appointed Amey's New Chief Information Officer

2 years ago

Amey, one of the UK's leading infrastructure services and engineering companies, has announced the appointment of Andy Richards as its new Chief Information Officer (CIO), effective Monday 30 September.

As Amey continues its rapid growth, delivering large-scale sustainable infrastructure solutions and securing high-profile contracts, Andy will play a pivotal role in advancing the company's digital transformation. He will be responsible for enhancing Amey's IT capabilities, ensuring the business remains at the forefront of emerging technologies. By building on the foundation laid by the current team, Andy will help create more innovative, and secure technology solutions that will drive operational efficiency and overall deliver better outcomes for Amey's clients.

With over 30 years of experience in the technology sector, Andy brings people, technology and business enablement expertise having worked across Consumer Electronics (FMCG), IT Outsourcing, Investment Banking, and Aerospace and Defence markets during his extensive career. His leadership at companies such as QinetiQ and ACCO Brands, and most recently as CIO at BAE Systems Digital Intelligence, saw him spearhead the implementation of advanced digital, data, and cyber capabilities, giving customers and partners a distinct digital advantage. At Amey, Andy's focus will be on leveraging and applying new technologies, such as AI, to enhance internal operations, streamline processes, and future-proof the business against evolving industry challenges. His expertise will ensure that Amey's infrastructure and engineering services continue to exceed client expectations, while driving sustainability and innovation across all projects.

Andy Richards, CIO of Amey, said: "I am thrilled to join Amey and work at the forefront of UK infrastructure. This is an incredible opportunity to drive innovation and accelerate the business's digital transformation. I look forward to building on the fantastic progress the business is already making with harnessing cutting-edge technologies to fuel growth, push boundaries, and elevate Amey's position as a leader in the industry."

Andy Milner, CEO of Amey, said: "Andy is an outstanding technology professional with a long-standing career in technology, making him the ideal person to protect and lead Amey's IT capabilities. At a time when Amey is rapidly growing, delivering large-scale sustainable infrastructure solutions and winning high-profile contracts, we are delighted to have Andy join the business ensuring Amey remains at the forefront of emerging technologies."