

Adler & Allan acquire pollution remediation experts MEL Environmental Solutions Ltd

10 months ago

Adler & Allan, a leading environmental services business, has acquired pollution remediation specialist MEL Environmental Solutions Ltd, to further enhance its contaminated land and groundwater remediation proposition.

MEL has been at the forefront of developing and implementing sustainable soil and groundwater remediation solutions in the insurance-led contaminated land market. They have a successful record in delivering market leading services across the UK and Ireland, providing environmental remediation services and claims handling from their network of strategically located offices and operational units.

Paul Theile, Managing Director, MEL, said: "We are thrilled to be joining the Adler & Allan Group. The extent of Adler & Allan's service range, combined with MEL's access to the insurance market, presents an excellent opportunity to broaden our offer to the insurance sector, whilst further strengthening Adler & Allan's leading position in the environmental remediation market."

Adler & Allan are on a mission to join up environmental services, making it easier for customers to access the solutions they need. With an unmatched blend of environmental consulting and infrastructure lifecycle management expertise, and an award-winning pollution response capability, the acquisition of MEL reinforces Adler and Allan's position as the market leading provider of integrated environmental solutions across a broad range of industrial sectors.

Jason Clay, Managing Director – Environmental Division, Adler & Allan, said: "Driven by our purpose of creating better environmental outcomes, welcoming MEL into the Adler & Allan family represents another tangible step towards realising our plan to scale our operations and further strengthen our market-leading package of integrated environmental solutions."

Adler & Allan, which is backed by Private Equity at Goldman Sachs Alternatives, remains committed to pursuing an acquisition-focused strategy, integrating highly specialised environmental services in support of customers across the UK and beyond.

Henrik Pedersen, CEO of Adler & Allan, commented: "This latest acquisition is the first step of our ambitious growth strategy to create a unified suite of environmental services both across the UK and internationally. We are delighted to welcome MEL Environmental to the Group.”
