

Facilities Show at Anticipate London 2024: Connecting FM and Property Management Leaders

2 years ago

This December 2-4, Facilities Show is back like you've never seen it.

Thousands of visitors are set to attend Facilities Show – now part of Anticipate London – to explore how building technologies and digitalization are driving change, while addressing key challenges like decarbonization, global risks, and shifting regulations.

Why attend the Facilities Show at Anticipate London?

As the premier event for facilities and workplace management, the Facilities Show offers a look into the trends and technologies shaping the future.

This year, the event introduces new formats designed to help professionals navigate today's complex FM landscape, providing a platform to connect with global experts and explore pressing industry challenges and opportunities.

What is Anticipate London, and where does Facilities Show fit in?

Although Anticipate London is new in name, it is built on the foundation of trusted legacy brands like Facilities Show, IFSEC, FIREX, and Safety & Health Expo.

The events will continue to spotlight the specialized areas you've relied on, from facilities management and smart buildings to security, fire safety, and health & safety. But as sectors like safety, security, and facilities converge, professionals need a space to explore how best to collaborate, and this event provides just that.

Anticipate London is also a step forward, expanding to cover topics critical to the future, such as technological innovation, workplace well-being, and leadership development. This broader scope allows the event to be more than just a series of industry updates—it's a chance for professionals to engage with the strategies shaping their industries today and tomorrow.

The refreshed event focuses on cutting-edge technology, a focus on sustainability, tackling the opportunities and risks of the future head-on, and bringing together a senior audience of forward-thinking professionals.

Who's going?

With more than 110 countries expected to attend, the event offers a global perspective on the most pressing challenges and opportunities in these interconnected industries.

Network with top FM professionals, including Directors and Heads from Anglian Water, CBRE, Chelsea FC, Ocado, Tesco, and many more.

Plus, explore hundreds of vendors showcasing PropTech, waste management, FM services, workplace furnishings, BMS solutions, and more.

Session Highlights for Facilities Professionals

For facilities managers and property professionals, Anticipate London provides unparalleled insights into how ESG and workplace trends will reshape the industry. This is the event to gain actionable insights, network with peers, and stay ahead in a rapidly evolving field.

Topics in the dedicated Facilities Show Stage will cover hybrid working, workplace trends, ESG, energy, electrification, PropTech, effective budgeting, and plenty more.

1. Transforming Workspaces: Aligning Office Refurbishments with ESG Goals 10:30 AM - 11:00 AM | Monday, 2nd December | Facilities Show Stage John O'Brien, Founder and MD of LCMB Building Performance, will share strategies on how office refurbishments can align with ESG goals. Learn practical tips to improve the ROI and success of your refurbishment projects while contributing to sustainability objectives.
2. Carbon Reduction in Real Estate 1:00 PM - 1:30 PM | Tuesday, 3rd December | Facilities Show Stage Decarbonizing real estate is critical to meeting Net Zero commitments, as the built environment contributes to 25% of the UK's carbon footprint. This session will explore how the sector can reduce carbon emissions, tackle challenges, and embrace opportunities.
3. IoT - Smart Options in FM 11:10 AM - 11:40 AM | Wednesday, 4th December | Facilities Show Stage Discover how IoT and smart technologies are shaping the future of facilities management. This session will showcase practical examples of how IoT is driving efficiency and performance in buildings, along with the challenges and benefits of implementing smart systems.

Co-located with FM & Property Awards Party

Featuring the most comprehensive agenda of learning, networking, and industry celebration you'll find at a UK event on and off the show floor, this year's highlights include the FM & Property Awards Party.

Attending the FM & Property Awards Party with your teams is the perfect way to unwind after a busy day at Anticipate London. It's an excellent opportunity to acknowledge and celebrate your teams' achievements while also providing a fantastic chance to network, socialize, and enjoy the festivities with suppliers, customers, and potential clients.

Getting your ticket

Attendees can choose between a FREE Visitor Pass—providing access to top-tier exhibitors and educational sessions—or a Leaders Pass, which offers exclusive insights and networking opportunities tailored for senior professionals.

The Leaders Pass includes access to VIP backstage areas, the Keynote Arena, and the Executive Retreat for networking with industry peers, ensuring a comprehensive experience designed for those leading the way in facilities management.

· Date: Monday 2 - Wednesday 4 December 2024

Visit the website for more information.