

Pareto Group acquires Sowga: Strengthening building maintenance, compliance, engineering and decarbonisation expertise

8 months ago

Pareto has announced the acquisition of Sowga, a renowned name in the mechanical and electrical engineering sector, with an expertise in maintenance and compliance services.

This acquisition marks a significant step forward in Pareto's strategy to expand its technical service capabilities and positions both companies for continued growth and strengthened service offerings. This comes as Pareto transitions into the Pareto Group, reinforcing its commitment to delivering comprehensive, client-focused solutions across diverse sectors.

This partnership brings together the dynamic facilities management approaches and expertise in mechanical and electrical engineering, compliance, and maintenance of both Pareto and Sowga. By combining their strengths, the collaboration creates added value for clients while unlocking new growth opportunities for employees. With a shared commitment to decarbonisation, Sowga's skills in sustainable projects align seamlessly with Pareto's focus on creating future-ready, environmentally responsible facilities. Clients can continue to expect the same high standards of service and reliability they've come to know from both Pareto and Sowga, now supported by an expanded range of resources and expertise.

James Clarke, CEO of Pareto, commented, "We are delighted to welcome Sowga to Pareto. Sowga's reputation for engineering excellence, client satisfaction, and commitment to sustainability aligns perfectly with Pareto's core values. Together, we are positioned to offer an even greater range of services while upholding the integrity and quality that define both companies.”

This acquisition reflects Pareto’s commitment to sustainable growth by broadening its capabilities in mechanical and electrical engineering, facilities management, and compliance services. This strategic partnership will enable both companies to enhance value for clients and continue delivering top-tier service across sectors.

Aaron Guidice, Managing Director of Sowga added: “Our partnership with Pareto is an exciting step forward for Sowga. This acquisition brings together two businesses with a shared commitment to quality and client satisfaction. With Pareto’s support, we’re looking forward to expanding our capabilities while continuing to deliver the high standards of service that our clients trust.”