NOVUS recently took home two trophies at the Association for Specialist Fire Protection (ASFP) Awards.

The team came out on top in two categories: Best Customer Service 2024, and Best Installation Project of the Year for their work with Platform Housing Group. Gaining recognition at a prestigious industry event like the ASFP Awards demonstrates our position as leading specialists in the installation and application of passive fire protection products, as well as their commitment to working collaboratively with their clients to achieve great results.

NOVUS said: “We’d like to take this opportunity to congratulate and thank our specialist team for their hard work, dedication and commitment to excellence. It’s fantastic to see this being recognised within the industry, and what a great way to round off 2024!”
