

Tilbury Douglas appoints Sector Director for Devolved Government

11 months ago

Tilbury Douglas, a leading UK building, infrastructure, engineering, and fit-out business, has announced the appointment of Jane O'Leary as Sector Director for Devolved Government, part of the company's National and Strategic Accounts team.

Jane has spent more than 20 years in devolved and local government, including leadership of the Vale of Glamorgan Council's transformative 21st Century Schools programme and contributing to NHS Building for Wales DFL1. She remains passionate about delivering innovation and excellence into the built environment and brings extensive expertise from her time as National Sector Director for Education at ISG.

Andrew Jowett, Strategic Director at Tilbury Douglas, said: "Jane will collaborate with our sector and business unit leads, as well as our regional teams, to drive strategic insights, strengthen client relationships, and support our mission to further expand in target regions. She will act as a vital bridge between project delivery teams, clients, and internal teams for our key customers."

With a strong construction background, Jane is committed to creating inspiring, sustainable spaces that enrich communities and prepare the next generation for a brighter future. Her vision aligns perfectly with Tilbury Douglas' goal to deliver outstanding sustainable environments for its customers.
