

PTSG company praised for water treatment services

7 months ago

Premier Technical Services Group Ltd (PTSG), via constituent company Total Environmental Compliance (TEC), has received strong praise from a customer in the education sector for whom its specialist engineers have delivered water hygiene, water treatment and consultancy services

Robert Oxlade, Mechanical Engineer at Cranfield University, said the following about TEC's service: "I would thoroughly recommend Total Environmental Compliance. Their detailed level of reporting and communication is outstanding. I now know what is being undertaken, when it will be achieved and the results are communicated in a timely manner. The team are professional, experienced and dedicated to the task of minimising Legionella risk."

TEC takes great pride in its long-standing partnership with Cranfield University, where its specialists have overseen the maintenance of the water system in place. Under the expert guidance of Damon Bhakta, Water Treatment Manager, and Luke Chard, Water Hygiene Engineer, the team has delivered a variety of essential services, including:

- Legionella Risk Assessments
- Planned Preventative Maintenance
- Remedials
- Closed Systems
- Cooling Tower Management

TEC's great experience of working in the education sector enables its specialists to have a clear understanding of the budgetary challenges faced. All services are delivered in accordance with the current recognised legislative requirements and best industry practice.
