

Blendsmiths launches FLOW: A new era of quality, accessible hot drinks

10 months ago

Leading innovators of the beverage industry, Blendsmiths have announced the launch of FLOW, an exciting new product format crafted for use in automated machines.

FLOW is the first of its kind to come to market and has been created in order to transform the way consumers enjoy hot drinks. Built on the belief that exceptional taste and innovative drinks should be available to everyone, anywhere, anytime, the FLOW range includes four taste-driven blends: two hot chocolates, a matcha and a chai.

The range of effortlessly premium, automated machine-compatible blends marks the first time Blendsmiths' products are available in a new format, shifting from a focus on the consumer at home to different settings. Following rigorous testing, the products have also been approved by many of the top bean to cup machines.

As more and more consumers seek alternatives to coffee and tea, driven by a focus on products with functional benefits, the popularity of alternatives, such as matcha and chai, has skyrocketed in recent years.

Blendsmiths' offering of meticulously crafted matchas, hot chocolates, and chais has grown a loyal customer base over the past eight years, and now FLOW will allow them to share these products on a larger scale, and for consumers to enjoy these in new locations. Made with responsibly sourced ingredients, FLOW helps meet the demand for more sophisticated and diverse drink options in the office or in-store.

Ryan Moore, Co-Founder of Blendsmiths' said of the launch, "We're proud to have created something truly innovative in the market. Customers today demand quality, value, and consistently good drinks. In an increasingly competitive market, offering a truly premium, indulgent drink experience is the key to driving revenue and reputation.

“Wherever and however you want to elevate your drinks offering, FLOW makes premium drinks accessible to everyone, anywhere, anytime.”
