

Q3 Services launches FM on Demand – the smart, scalable solution for FM

4 months ago

Q3 has launched FM On Demand, a subscription-based service designed to simplify compliance, risk management, and operations for growing businesses. With a technology-driven approach and the expertise of Q3's 'people and place' professionals, FM On Demand provides a seamless, scalable, and cost-effective way to manage facilities.

Q3 is changing the way SMEs approach facilities management. FM On Demand removes the burden of facilities management for businesses without a dedicated FM team, streamlining operations and ensuring compliance. By reducing time spent on supplier management and administrative tasks, businesses can stay ahead of regulations, avoid costly penalties, and focus on their own growth.

The new service from Q3 offers numerous benefits, including:

- Live compliance tracking with actionable insights
- A 24/7 helpdesk
- Access to a vetted supplier network
- A flexible, transparent subscription model with no lengthy commitments and the option to scale up and down as needed.

Support can be tailored with customisable services including sustainability reporting, invoice validation, and carbon management support.

Mark Hazelwood, Q3's managing director said: "We know facilities management can be a minefield for small and medium enterprises without a dedicated FM resource. FM On Demand puts control in the hands of business leaders while ensuring compliance, productivity and safety. By combining expert support with cutting-edge technology, we're making facilities management simpler, smarter, and more cost-effective for our customers, leaving them to do what they do best – growing their business."