Bath-based workplace design firm Interaction has completed its fourteenth project for UK office space and co-working provider Runway East, who have opened their latest premium office space near London's bustling Borough Market.

Runway East's latest luxury workspace spans 12,000 sq ft over six elegantly designed floors at 150 Borough High Street in Southwark, which is one minute's walk from Borough underground station.

It features eight stylish private office suites that can accommodate teams of 50 plus people. The offices have their own self-contained meeting rooms, tea points and colourful break-out spaces, with some even boasting their own private terraces.

There is also an attractive communal breakout space on the top floor where all members can meet and connect. They can enjoy panoramic views across London from a stunning rooftop terrace.

The Borough High Street site is the latest design project that Interaction has completed for Runway East who operate co-working and serviced offices across London, Bristol, Bath, Birmingham and Brighton. Both Interaction and Runway East are certified B Corporations, having met high standards of verified social and environmental performance.

Oli Ring, head of marketing at Runway East, said: "Ten years in and we're pretty used to working with Interaction by now. Their designs consistently bring our spaces to life, and I'm always blown away by how the finished product looks and feels."

“It’s been great working with Lucy and the team on 150 Borough High Street as we continue to cement our position as one of London’s leading office space providers.”

Lucy Symons, account design lead at Interaction, said: “This latest flexible office space is a step towards a more premium look for Runway East. But the refined colour palette and bold features still offer a hint of the firm’s trademark playful branding and community-building ethos.

“This state-of-the-art fit out is our fourteenth collaboration with Runway East and further strengthens its position as the UK’s fastest growing office space provider.”
